UNIVERSITY

January 31, 2011

With the stress of live events and the 100,000 moving parts that is a Football or Basketball game at Michigan State I need to be able to lean heavily on the people I work with. There is no "I'll have it to you next week" in my business and failure isn't acceptable. I put Mike Wriggelsworth and Comsource to the test every chance I get and he and Comsource have yet to fail me.

I don't do business with people that I don't have a friendship with because so much is riding on our communication system; I have to be able to trust them implicitly. After using different communication purveyors I've come to really trust Comsource because they always have the inventory I need or can fix my equipment in a timely fashion or even a ridiculous fashion when need be. As long as I am at MSU they will be part of my team.
